

I have received funding from the Taubman Center for State and Local Government at Harvard University, which has in turn received funding from real estate entities, some of which have interests in China. I have also given speeches for compensation to real estate-related entities, some of which have members with interests in China.

Edward Glaeser