I have received funding from the following nonprofit or governmental organizations to support research related to the topic of this article: Carnegie Corporation of New York, Democracy Fund, National Science Foundation (award number 1949077), Russell Sage Foundation, Anti-Defamation League, Newmark Philanthropies, National Academy of Sciences, American Press Institute, Time-Sharing Experiments for the Social Sciences, the University of Michigan, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, and Dartmouth College. I also received a Facebook Integrity Foundational Research Award for a study of online misinformation and how to most effectively address it, but the company played no role in the conduct of my research and I have taken no salary or consulting fees from Facebook or its subsidiaries. Finally, I have written articles on related topics as a contributor to The Upshot at The New York Times, Columbia Journalism Review, and Medium.
