

Disclosure Statement for “How Social Security Reform Affects Pension Claiming and Retirement”

Rafael Lalive

- (1) Rafael Lalive receives funding from the National Center of Competence in Research (NCCR) LIVES.
- (2) Rafael Lalive has been consulting for the Swiss Ministry for Economic Affairs (SECO), received support from the National Bureau of Economic Research in its Social Security Research program. He has an on-going research project, funded by the National Institute of Health, on the Effects of Covid on Risk Perceptions.
- (3) Nothing to disclose.
- (4) No close relative is involved with an interested party.
- (5) No other party had the right to review the paper.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "R. Lalive". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, stylized 'R' and a clear 'Lalive'.

Jan 24, 2022.