

I, Ran Eilat, hereby state that I have nothing to disclose in terms of potential conflicts of interest, affiliations, or relationships that could influence the content or objectivity of my manuscript titled “Opportunity Hunters: A Model of Competitive Sequential Inspections” hereby submitted to the AEJ: Microeconomics.

No IRB approval has been obtained for the project because it involves no human subjects.

However, it is important to note that I have received financial support from the Israeli Science Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing scientific research and innovation. This support has been provided for my research endeavors and has no direct connection to my involvement with AEJ: Microeconomics.

Sincerely,

Ran Eilat
