

Disclosure Statement

Robert Moffitt

July 15, 2016

For JEP Article, “In Defense of the NSF Economics Program”

The author received no financial support for the work on this article. The author received $10,000 in compensation exactly in consulting fees in 2013-2014 from a grant to the University of Michigan from the National Science Foundation for a project whose goal was to recommend to NSF whether they needed to support new household panel data collection. The author received no other payments of $10,000 or more from any other interested party.