National Policies and Agricultural Trade.

The report that set the tone for the discussions on agricultural trade at the OECD Ministerial Meeting in May and the Venice Summit in June. This groundbreaking work examines in detail the agricultural policies and subsidy programs of OECD countries, including an analysis of their impacts on trade and the market. It also analyzes the potential economic and market impacts of reducing subsidies. The book presents detailed statistical information and sophisticated economic analysis. Annexes provide analysis of various policy instruments used in OECD countries, the ways in which subsidies can be measured, the impact of marketing boards, developments in particular commodity markets, country-by-country listings of tariffs and quotas, and existing intergovernmental agreements. This book addresses the major issues surrounding today's trade controversy and will be the basis for continuing negotiations.

Recent Trends in International Direct Investment.

Includes analysis as well as statistics. The analytical section examines geographical and sectoral trends, as well as earnings, financing, and other issues. Chapter Two takes a longer-term, in-depth look at the reasons for the declines in international direct investment in developing countries. The statistical section presents aggregate data for the period 1960-1983, and more detailed data for the period 1970-83.
